Earthquake hits Central Canada

Cars were shaken from their parking spots and buildings cracked yesterday as a magnitude-5.0 earthquake left a small town in western Quebec in a state of emergency and much of Central Canada wondering what in the world was going on.

The damage appeared to be concentrated in Gracefield, Que., a tiny municipality of just over 2,300 not far from the epicentre of the temblor, which was lo-cated about 60 kilometres north of Ottawa.

When the quake struck at 1:41 p.m. ET, Gracefield's residents ran through the streets, said town councillor Michael Gainsford. There were no reports of injuries.

Elsewhere, damage apbroken peared minor gas, water and sewage mains in communities across the affected area, mostly.

The Geological Survey of Canada described the event as a "moderate" quake — a rare phenomenon so far east of the Rocky Mountains.

Metro Calgary managing editor Darren Krause:

My colleague from Vancouver, Fernando Carneiro, and I had cornered our interactive content manager, Chris Tindal, to chat (at Metro's Toronto office).

Then the floor starts shaking and the building (starts) swaving and Fernando says to Chris, "Is it normal for the floor to shake like this?"

Chris scoffs and says, "Oh yeah."

The floor continues to shake and the building continues swaying — and people are rushing to the window.

Thirty seconds of shaking wasn't normal, in fact.

It was my first earthquake experience.

Air India Flight 182 left Toronto on June 23, 1985, and exploded in the sky off the Irish coast, killing all 329 people aboard — 278 of them Canadians.

Another blast at Tokyo's Narita Airport an hour earlier killed two baggage handlers as they handled a bomb-laden suitcase destined for another Air India plane.

Harper also touched on the anguish and frustration families felt when the national tragedy was treated as a international incident, perpetrated by foreign terrorists.

Harper "Canadians, who sadly did not at first accept that this outrage was made in Canada, accept it

"It is wrong and it must be laid to rest. This was not an act of foreign violence."

Summits likely to be most costly ever: Budget officer

But official won't say yet if $1B security cost is justified

G20 Summit

Canada's G8 and G20 summits will likely go down as the costliest in history.

But an analysis by parliamentary budget officer Kevin Page says it can't be determined for certain at this juncture whether the about $1 billion price tag for security is too much.

The Harper government surprised most observers last month when it announced security alone would ring in at $930 million, resulting in NDP MP Davies requesting Page do an analysis of the expenditure.

Security costs roughly break down to $507 million for the RCMP, $278 million for public safety and emergency preparedness, $78 million for National Defence and $55 million as a contingency reserve.

The summits have also been dogged by accusations of needless spending on a fake lake to serve as a media backdrop and the sprucing up of Industry Minister Tony Clement's riding north of Toronto that includes the resort where the G8 meeting will three times more for each national defence employee than it did the last time Canada hosted a similar event, the 2002 G8 conference in Kananaskis.

"These are significant unexplained variances and a more detailed breakdown of how the allocated funds are to be spent might help explain these variances," he writes. Overall, Page concludes that while the Huntsville G8 will cost more in constant dollars than Kananaskis, it is within the range of reported costs for recent similar summits L'Aquila, Italy, in 2009, and Hokkaido, Japan, in 2008. The G20 summit in Toronto is another matter, however. Page estimates the big-city security required will result in a $600-million price tag.

That is double anything else reported for previous

G20 or G8 meetings.
Page cautions that he has not received sufficient costing from other nations for a definitive comparison and he notes previous G20 summits in London and Washington had the advantage of being held in cities with preexisting

Most of the cost for the Canadian summits stem from importing thousands of security personnel from across Canada and paying for food and lodging.

"It was the quietest Holi of my life," laughs Vishwanath, known to everyone as Vishy. "There was not much happening around us, but we have friends in Surrey, and it was nice to celebrate with them. We called home and spoke to family and friends."

Vishy credits Pankaj Mehra, Director, India and South Asian Markets, with smoothening their move.

The Singhs were introduced to banking in Canada before they even set foot on Canadian soil. "We met Pankaj at a seminar he conducted in Delhi for new immigrants. "For brand new arrivals, the feeling that you know someone at the bank is comforting. It is like landing in Canada and meeting a friend. The welcome was very warm, very genuine."

Besides its five branches in India, Scotiabank has a strategic alliance with HDFC Bank, which enables new immigrants to open an account in Canada – even before they have boarded the plane!

They can fill out an application, apply for VISA cards, etc., and these are couriered to Canada, where their bank accounts are set up. A welcome kit is mailed out to the clients or, if their arrival is imminent, an e-mail detailing how to remit funds is sent out so everything is in place.

"Scotiabank offers a comprehensive StartRight" Program for newcomers to Canada," says Rania Llewellyn, Vice-President, Multicultural Banking. "It was created after a lot of research and is an innovative program, tailor-made for newcomers".

"I recommend StartRight to others who are in the process of immigrating. I tell everyone we are StartRight customers for life!" says Vishy.

Their children, Ridhav, 14, and Yoshita, 11, have settled in well. Yoshita in grade 6 has her own group of friends which includes a Filipino, a Mexican and a Fijian. "Both of them are the junior multicultural minded immigrants!" says Vishy.

The Singhs are full of optimism. A year ago, while Vishy hoped to be in the garment business, Piyu was thinking of moving into counseling.

Today, Vishy has done a lot of spadework for his garment import business. "With the help of Scotia Bank, I have been able to open a business account and seek advice from their senior trade officer, International trade. Limei Zhou at Scotia Bank's downtown regional office has been wonderful and I have made strong in-roads to the local buyer's base. Although, due to recession and other factors things are slow I remain positive" says Vishy.

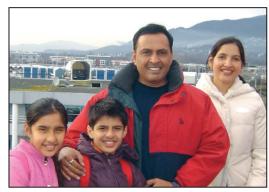

Piyu is finally in a profession where she wanted to be. She is a program counselor with PICS, a multicultural immigrants serving agency. She loves her job since it was always her focus to either teach in Canada or help other immigrants in whatever way she could.

"As new immigrants, there are so many experiences we have had that I feel we can help guide other new immigrants."

"And finally, I have a car; our first vehicle in Canada! The time will come when we will purchase our first home in Canada and I know where I will go for help and guidance," says Vishy, "Scotiabank!"

oodbye columns are a bit self-indulgent, but I figured might as well hear it from me: This is it for us — this is my last Relating column.

I hope this news doesn't bring about sadness (or too much gladness, either!) It will be OK. You'll be reading someone new in no time, and that's cool with me. I want you to be happy, or at least entertained.

We'll probably bump into each other from time to time, and I hope that's not too weird for you. If you're ever in Ottawa, you can still read me in Mon-

Debunking some popular feminist myths

After a year and a half of sharing my views with you all (hopefully ideas that show feminism isn't just a punchline), this is my last column. I'd like to leave you with some parting thoughts. When I tell people I'm feminist, I usually get one of these reactions. I hope these mythbusters help change the conversation:

Myth No. 1: Feminists are just hairy-armpitted, lesbian, spinster hags.

Some of us don't shave regularly, but that's because it's such a damn chore! But seriously, feminists work hard to shine a light on the many issues women face. When people dismiss our ideas, focusing instead on appearance or sexual orientation, it just proves prejudices still

Myth No. 2: Feminists keep harping about the Rape, abortion, work-place equity and rights still dominate the conversation because, well, if these problems had disappeared, we wouldn't continue to see violence against women, underrepresentation as voices in politics and media, or lack of access to safe, legal abortions (G8 maternal plan, anyone?)

Myth No. 3: Equality has been achieved.

Canadian women have parallel lives: They make up the majority of the workforce and post-secondary enrolment, still earn less, are less likely to be managers, and when they get home, do the majority of housework. The quality of life among low-income and aboriginal populations is lower than the average; in Nunavut, the child mortality rate is four times the Canadian average, Does that sound like equality to

Myth No. 4: Feminists hate men and want to put them down.

No one is looking to rule over men, we're just looking out for the little guys (in a manner of speaking), whether it's racism, homophobia, classism, or even patriarchy. Any guy who has been expected to be a provider, a leader, to play sports or stop being a nancy knows how burdensocial expectations can be. A feminist who puts down someone else is no feminist.

Myth No. 5: Modern feminism is so trivial. That's only if you consider feminism to be the domain of the Western world. Consider that in the developing world, a woman dies every minute either in pregnancy or in childbirth, and 90 per cent of these deaths are preventable; women are trafficked into the sex trade; women in many parts of the world have no access to health care, education or jobs. As long as these stories exist, there is always a woman who needs a helping hand.

It's been a good run, and thanks for listening. Stay touch caniceleung.com.

Gusher recapped after oil spilled much of day

Oil had spewed uncontrolled into the Gulf of Mexico for much of the day yesterday before engineers reattached a cap being used to contain the gusher and direct some of the crude to a surface ship.

The logistics co-ordinator onboard the Discoverer Enterpriser, the ship that has been siphoning the oil, told The Associated Press that after more than 10 hours, the system was again collecting the crude. The crewmember, speaking from the bridge of the ship, said the cap was placed back on the gusher around 8 p.m. local time. He asked not to be identified by name because he was not authorized to provide the information.

Obama removes general over remarks

U.S. President Barack Obama sacked his looselipped Afghanistan commander yesterday, a seismic shift for the military order in wartime, and chose the familiar, admired — and tightly disciplined — Gen. David Petraeus to replace him.
Petraeus, architect of the lrag war turnaround. was once again to take hands on leadership of a troubled war effort.

Obama said bluntly that Gen. Stanley McChrystal's scornful remarks about administration officials represent conduct that "undermines the civilian control of the military that is at the core of our democratic system." He fired the commander after summoning him from Afghanistan for a face-to-face meeting in the Oval Office and named Petraeus, the Central Command chief who was McChrystal's direct boss, to step in.

In a statement expressing praise for McChrystal, Obama said he did not make the decision over any disagreement in policy or "out of any sense of personal insult." Flanked by Vice-President Joe Biden, Defence Secretary Robert Gates and Adm. Mike Mullen, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, he said: "War is bigger than any one man or woman, whether a private, a general, or a president."

"I welcome debate

among my team, but I won't tolerate division," Obama said. The announcement came as June became the deadliest month for the U.S.-dominated international coalition in Afghanistan.

G8 expected to tackle rising African drug trafficking

NARCOTICS The leaders of the world's eight industrialized economies are expected to address an emerging security threat as the global narco-trafficking business shifts toward new drugs and markets via a new hot spot: West Africa.

The United Nations released a report yesterday showing West Africa is exploding as a major transshipment point for funnelling cocaine to Europe from central and South America. The World Drug Report 2010, released in Washington by the UN Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC), lends urgency to an issue that was discussed by G8 foreign ministers in March and has been placed on the security agenda of the summit. The G8 leaders will sit down tomorrow afternoon with leaders from Africa, the Caribbean and Colombia to explore ways to boost the capacity of West African governments to combat the problem.

The UN report shows drug use has "stabilized" in the developed world, but there are signs of an increase in drug use in developing countries.

Ships part of weapons plot, claims Israel PM

Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu charged yesterday that the real motivation behind plans to send blockade-busting ships toward Gaza is to allow free flow of weapons into the Palestinian territory.

Netanyahu spoke as preparations were under way to send several ships carrying aid and pro-Palestinian activists toward Gaza, setting up potential confrontations at sea.

On May 31, Israeli naval commandos killed nine pro-Palestinian activists in clashes aboard a Turkish ship headed for Gaza, setting off a world outcry and forcing Israel to ease its three-year-old blockade.

Israel already has warned archenemy Iran to drop its plan to send a blockade-busting ship to Gaza.

The Iranian ship is one of several that activists say will head for Gaza in the next few months. One is said to be heading for Gaza from Lebanon within days.

Yesterday, Lebanon warned that it would hold Israel responsible for any further attacks on blockade-busting ships.

Netanyahu said his government is drawing up a list of weapons and items with military uses that will not be allowed into Gaza "so that we can permit all the rest."

He said the new list will be made public "in the coming days."

Since the violent 2007 takeover of Gaza by Hamas—an Islamic militant group responsible for firing thousands of rockets at Israeli border communities—Israel has let in only limited humanitarian supplies, including basic foods

and medicine

Construction materials, which Israel maintains Hamas could use to make weapons and build bunkers, were barred, and the vast majority of Gaza's 1.5 million people could not travel.

The blockade strangled the already poor territory's economy but failed to undermine Hamas, one of the blockade's main goals.

Under Israel's new policy, approved Sunday, "Anyone who wants to bring products can do so — food, toys, medicines, anything," Netanyahu said yesterday. But Israel insists that all cargo from the flotillas must be inspected at one of its ports to remove weapons, and then the aid supplies would be transferred over land to Gaza.

BRAZIL Prosecutors said yesterday they will file criminal charges against a man who allegedly imprisoned his daughter for 12 years and fathered her seven children.

Police have gathered enough evidence in their investigation to charge Jose Agostinho Pereira, prosecutor Alineide Martins Rabelo Costa said.

Authorities say that Pereira kept his daughter a virtual prisoner since 1998 in a thatched-roof hut outside a tiny fishing village in northeastern Brazil. They also say that he abused two of the children he had with his daughter.

If convicted, Pereira could be sentenced to up to 30 years in jail, Costa said. Pereira allegedly began to sexually abuse the daughter when she was just 12 and after his wife left him.

Rules unveiled for 'dated, dirty' units

The federal government is adopting tough new regulations aimed at cleaning up coal-fired electricity generation.

"Most of Canada's coalburning electricity plants are both dated and dirty," Environment Minister Jim Prentice said yesterday. "We have a responsibility as a country to reduce our carbon emissions."

The proposed regulations will impose stringent performance standards on new coal-burning power plants, as well as older ones looking to extend their lives.

The flag, ripped in the middle and covered in dirt, was pulled from the wreckage left behind by the earthquake and tsunami that hit the South American country in February, killing more than 500 people and leaving 200,000 homeless. It was held up by Bruno Sandoval in an iconic image after he retrieved it from a flooded area in coastal Pelluhue — a moment that Chilean president Sebastian Pinera later hailed as "lifting the spirit of a country."

Stakes get even higher for Italians

GROUP F PREVIEW

Marcello Lippi and Fabio Cannavaro have added motivation for Italy's final group game against Slovakia at the World Cup

Both coach and captain have announced they will leave the national team after the tournament, and if the Azzurri can't win they could be eliminated. "None of us want it to be the last game," Lippi said yesterday at Ellis Park. "On a personal level, we all feel that way.

Midfielder Gennaro Gattuso has also announced he will retire from inter-national play when Italy exits.
"It would be a shame to an Italy-record 135 appearances but is coming off two of the worst performances of his career. He was responsible in part for both goals Italy has allowed in its opening 1-1 draws with Paraguay

Bring back the oldies by hopping on the vintage train.

Give classic decor items a new home by throwing touches of vintage style into your space, creating the feel of stepping back in time.

"When scouring flea markets and antique shops, look for pieces that speak to you," said Karen Kwinter, style editor-at-large at Canadian Living and Homemakers maga-zines. "Either they have an heirloom feeling or just feel like a treasure to you."

Kwinter says some of the most trendy ways to infuse classic style into a room are by using vintage suit-cases stacked as a side table or vintage chairs either recovered, refinished or stripped — or a mod-ern-shaped chair reuphol-stered with vintage fabric.

Boost the look of your yard with vintage garden furniture, left as is or repainted, throw some jungle fever into a room with vintage animal rugs — zebra prints are especially hot right now — or make a statement with a traditional chandelier.

Another way to add vintage into your decor is with world globes or framed vintage maps, or silver serving pieces, tea services or trays. Try lining your book shelf with vintage books or fill a wall or shelf with old paintings, either framed or unframed

Mixing up old and cur-rent will give the feel of modern antiquity. Placing a vintage item among newer pieces will create a casual contrast while adding a sense of history and tradition — a vibranthued rotary phone or antique clock is always good for a surprise.

"Don't be afraid to mix it up," says Kwinter. "Vin-tage goes great with both modern and contemporary. Don't want to run around? Check out eBay, it's an amazing source for vintage finds.

Precollections are becoming increasingly more important

KENYA HUNT Metro World News

What exactly is a precollection anyway?

Consider them the more low-key, real-life cousins to the runway extravaganzas you see photos of during the fashion weeks. Increasingly big sellers in stores, pre-collections are usually more wearable.

While the clothes you see on a prêt-a-porter catwalk often look more appropriate for a fantastical magazine shoot than the street, the pre-collections are created to work in a wardrobe. they're often shown in modest presentations in showrooms instead of big productions. (Though it's worth noting that more resort '11 collections were shown as runway shows this season than ever before).

They also give a hint at what direction a designer might go in for the prêt-a-porter season. For example, the military trend first surfaced in a Burberry Prorsum pre-fall collection.

Workers at the house on Tuesday said Katherine Jackson wanted the house spruced up for the event.

The flowers, balloons, stuffed animals and signs that covered the front lawn for weeks after Jackson's death from an overdose of sedatives are gone. The tiny house already has a new roof, a fresh coat of white paint, newly poured concrete along the walkway and driveway and is surrounded by a black wrought iron fence.

The only time Jackson has returned to his hometown was in 2003, when plans for a Michael Jackson Performing Arts Center in the city's downtown were announced. It was never built.

RECORDING Rapper Tupac Shakur's song Dear Mama, Bill Cosby's second comedy album and rare battle sounds from Second World War are among 25 recordings the Library of Congress is preserving for their cultural significance.

Selections for the 2009 National Recording Registry were announced yesterday. They must be at least 10 years old and be culturally, historically or aesthetically significant.

The combination of Cosby - an outspoken critic of profanity and violence in hip-hop culture — with work from a rapper who was shot and killed in 1996 is notable, but organizers said Tupac's Dear Mama was a heartfelt homage to mothers struggling with addiction and It's also a "relatively tame" recording, and the cultural impact of hip-hop is undeniable, program coordinator Steve Leggett said. Tupac is the third rapper inducted, following Grandmaster Flash and Public Enemy.

In announcing the registry, Librarian of Congress James Billington said the list "showcase the diverse beauty, humanity and artistry found in the American soundscape.

Kilmer finds his words won't go away

LOCAL Actor Val Kilmer appeared Wednesday before San Miguel County commissioners, saying he hopes something good comes from the hearing after he was quoted making disparaging comments about the community of Las Vegas, New Mexico.

Commissioners invited Kilmer to explain comments published years ago in Rolling Stone and Esquire magazines.

In October 2003, Rolling Stone published an article that quoted Kilmer as say-ing he lived in the "homicide capital of the Southwest," and 80 per cent "of the people in my county are drunk."

The actor, who starred in Tombstone, Top Gun and The Doors, has maintained that his words were taken out of context and misunderstood. He says he loves the San Miguel County area, where he has lived for more than a dozen years.

Commission chairman David Salazar said Kilmer wasn't forced to appear vesterday but was simply offered an opportunity to speak on his own behalf.

The commission was expected to make a decision at the end of the meeting on whether to allow Kilmer's Pecos Ranch to proceed with its plan to open three guest houses to paying customers.

County zoning and planning commission approved the proposal 3-2 in March, but Rowe resident Abran Tapia appealed to the commission.

to shake her tweeny TV image with lush beats, and autotone set to overdrive. Her leather pants, just-got-outta-bed hair and come-hither pout suggest she's taking a sharp turn to skankville. Don't panic. The danceclub stuff never gets too out of hand and by the fourth track Miley settles into a groove that undulates somewhere between Taylor Swift and Ke$ha. She's best when leaning toward the country side of things on tracks like Every Rose Has Its Thorn and Two More Lonely People. This CD will please loyal fans. It's hard to imagine her making any new ones yet, though.

Herbie Hancock

Album: The Imagine Project Label: Sony

THE LAST TIME Herbie Hancock decided around theme, won the Grammy for Record of the Year. Then the focus was the music of Joni Mitchell. This time around, his theme is much more ambitious — the mu-sic of the world. The master jazz pianist has drawn around him some of the finest musicians on the planet to create remarkable pastiche of, well, just about everything. He has Pink, Seal, India.Arie, Jeff Beck working with an African percussion ensemble on John Lennon's Imagine, the opening track. The Imagine Project may be the best "world music" record ever made. great and he's sorry. "Them last two albums didn't count Encore I was on drugs, Relapse I was flushing 'em out." While Recovery is definitely a step up, it's not a return to Slim Shady LP-like form. The problem may lie with his producers — Dr. Dre, who's helmed almost all of his music, was relegated to one song, while a roving cast of DJs did the rest. The record is uneven as a result, floating from aggressive to mundane and everything in between.

Sarah Harmer

Album: Oh Little Fire Label: Universal Rating: @@@@

IT'S EASY TO forget that Sarah Harmer made band career has been of the folk pop variety, and while that's served her well, it's nice to see her turn up the amps again on Oh Little Fire, her first record in five years. The disc still features her delicate voice and plenty of fragile, heartwarming fragile, heartwarming songs, but rollicking pop tracks like the infectious Captive are a nice addition to her already impressive oeuvre.

1/2 tsp cayenne 1 1/2 lb chicken drumsticks, boneless thighs or breasts

METHOD:

1. Preheat a grill to medium-high. 2. In a bowl, combine yogurt, 1 tablespoon olive oil, cider vinegar, honey, horseradish, salt, black pepper and 1/4 teaspoon cavenne and stir until blended. Measure 1/2 cup of yogurt mixture and set aside for garnish.

3. In a small bowl, combine 2 tablespoons olive oil and ¼ teaspoon cayenne and stir well. Bush oil mixture on chicken pieces and season with salt and pepper. Place chicken on hot grill and cook, turning often and basting with olive oil mixture until cooked through. Chicken breasts and boneless thighs will be about 5 to 8 minutes per side, drumsticks will be about 14 to 16 minutes. During the last 6 minutes of cooking, baste chicken with remaining 1/2 cup yogurt mixture and discard any that remains after chicken is finished. Cover chicken with tinfoil and let rest until ready to serve.
